International Mindedness in Action in the IPC
Anna Vaughan, Head of IPC

By the end of the course you will:

- Know about recent and future developments in the IPC
- Know the importance of International Mindedness and its place in the school’s shared vision
- Know the importance of International Mindedness and its place in the school’s shared vision
- Understand a variety of ways that International Mindedness can be embedded throughout the school and the role technology can have in developing this
- Understand how the Sustainable Development Goals can be used to develop International Mindedness
- Understand how children’s languages and the IPC World Languages Learning Goals can be used to demonstrate and develop International Mindedness
- Know about the development of International Learning Goals in the IPC
- Be able to plan next steps to develop International Mindedness throughout the school community

Session 1
We will start by looking at developments both recent and future within the IPC using Visible Thinking Routines and how these support the development of multiple perspectives contributing to International Mindedness.

Session 2
We will explore the importance and breadth of International Mindedness and how this can be developed in school.

Session 3
International School of Surrey, London will run a workshop on using a child’s languages to demonstrate and develop International Mindedness.

Session 4
Sakhalin International School, Russia will run a workshop on their integration of the Sustainable Development Goals, the IPC and Visible Thinking to promote International Mindedness.
Session 5

This session will look at the development of International Learning Goals within IPC units and how the Global Goals and PISAs Global Competence Framework may be integrated.

Session 6

This session will be a collaborative workshop with the World’s Largest Lesson looking at integrating the Sustainable Development Goals with the IPC. This will also feature a Skype from Unicef in New York.